Guidelines for Determining When Residency Qualifications for Office Must be Met.

This document is provided for reference only. It is not to be construed as giving legal advice or representation. As applied to a particular set of facts or circumstances, interested parties should refer to the Florida Statutes and applicable case law, and/or consult a private attorney before drawing any legal conclusions or relying upon the information provided.

City Commissioner	At the time of assuming office, unless provided otherwise by city charter or ordinance. DE 94-04; DE 92-10; Nichols v. State 177 So.2d 467 (Fla. 1965) & Marina v. Leahy, 578 So.2d 382 (Fla. 3rd DCA 1991)(re reasonable durational residency requirements)
County Commissioner	At the time of election. State v. Grassi, 532 So.2d 1055 (Fla. 1988); s. 1(e), art. VIII, Fla. Const.; DE 92-10, DE 94-04; AGO 74-293
Constitutional County Officers (e.g., clerk of court, supervisor of elections, property tax appraiser, sheriff, etc.)	At the time of assuming office. By analogy, refer to Advisory Opinion to Governor, 192 So.2d 757 (Fla. 1966); DE 90-30, DE 92-10, DE 94-04
Judicial Officers	At the time of assuming office. By analogy, refer to Advisory Opinion to Governor, 192 So.2d 757 (Fla. 1966); DE 94-04, and DE 78-31
Legislators	At the time of assuming office. See section 15, art. III, Fla. Const. (for qualifications)
School Board Member	At the time of qualifying (for residency sections 1001.34, 1001.361, Fla. Stat. – formerly 230.10, F.S.) (DE 82-2, 94-04 -statute cited is section 230.10, F.S.)
School Superintendent	At the time of assuming office. See DE 94-04 Section 1001.463, Fla. Stat., failure to maintain residency results in vacancy. (this implies residency requirement) s. 5, art. IX, Fla. Const. (4-yr term); Section 1001.46, Fla. Stat. (elected); Section 1001.461, Fla. Stat. (appointed)
Write-in Candidate	At the time of qualifying. See section 99.0615, Ha. Stat. (residency requirements)

- Rule of thumb: Unless otherwise provided for constitutionally, legislatively or judicially, the residency requirement, if one exists, for an office must be met at the time of assuming office.
- State law requires that all candidates at the time of qualifying subscribe to an oath that they are qualified electors of their county. In order to be a qualified elector, one must be a resident of Florida and the county wherein he or she registers to vote. Although the completed oath is an affirmation at the time of execution that the candidate meets the requirements for qualifying such as residency, in practice, the candidate is expected to meet the requirements at the time of assuming office unless otherwise provided for constitutionally, legislatively or judicially. See s. 99.021, Fla. Stat.
- A residency requirement, if one exists, for an office is a continuous one. Failure to maintain the residency as required will result in a vacancy in office: School superintendent (section 1001.463, Fla. Stat.); vacancy in office (general; section 3, art. X, Fla. Const., section 114.01(1)(g), Fla. Stat. Note that in the absence of a statutory or constitutional provision or municipal ordinance that establishes a residency requirement, failure to maintain residency alone would not trigger a vacancy in office. See AGO 75-113.

Any questions regarding residency requirements not otherwise expressly stated in the Florida Election Code should be addressed to the Florida Attorney General's Office.

If a vacancy occurs in the office of Vice-President, the President shall nominate a successor who must be confirmed by a majority vote of both houses of Congress before assuming office. The Presidential Succession Act of 1947 (formally Title 3, Chapter 1 Section 19 of the United States Code), states: In the event that both the Chief Executive and Vice-President were incapacitated, the Speaker of the House would succeed to the Presidency.

Term expires in January 2013

Electoral College:

The President is elected by electoral votes, there are 538 Electoral College members, and Florida has a total of 27 electoral votes, one for each U.S. Senator and U.S. Representative in Congress. In order to win the presidency, the candidate must receive 270 electoral votes.

In Florida, the presidential candidate who wins a majority of the popular votes in the state also earns all the votes of the state's Electoral College members. Each state has the same number of Electoral College members as the total of its Senators and Representatives. However, in this method of electing the president, candidates can win the most Electoral College votes, and thus the presidency, even without winning the most popular votes. Current campaign strategy targets populous states with the most electors, including California, Texas, Florida, New York and Illinois.

Merit retention presently applies to Florida's Appellate judges, judges on the Florida Supreme Court and judges on the Florida District Court of Appeals (not to trial judges on circuit or county courts).

District Court of Appeals Judges are subject to a retention election among only those voters who reside in the jurisdiction of each judge's respective appellate district. Supreme Court judges appear on the ballot statewide because their court's jurisdiction extends throughout Florida.

If a vacancy occurs in the office of the District Court of Appeals, the Governor fills the vacancy through a "Merit Selection" process involving judicial nominating commissions composed of lawyers and other citizen members who screen judicial applicants and recommend up to six nominees for the position. The Governor appoints one of these qualified candidates to fill the vacancy. (As provided in Statute 78.260)
